The Number 5

Have a look around your house for things that have the number 5 written on them.

Can you collect together groups of 5 things. Can you sort them by size, or colour or shape?

How many nursery rhymes do you know about the number 5?

Communication and Language

Using Prepositions, positional language

We have included a crazy cat preposition sheet this week but you don't have to print off all the pages and use that particular sheet. You can do the same activity with small toys or soft toys; place them around the house or garden then ask your child to find them. Discuss where they were. Were they under something? On top? Beside. How many words can you think of to describe the position e.g., under/beneath/below. This activity is about enhancing speech and language but it's also about having fun. Let us know where you put your cats, cars, teddies etc

Physical Development

Let's Go on a Bear Hunt

Or more precisely -

Let's Go on a Scavenger Hunt

Use the scavenger hunt sheet and see how many things you can tick off. Some you will find in your home and some you'll have to go on an outdoor hunt for.
