

Mary Magdalene Fact File

Loyalty - Mary Magdalene was deeply devoted and loyal to Jesus and stayed with him during his crucifixion when others fled in fear.

Honour - Mary Magdalene was honoured by being the first person Jesus appeared to after his resurrection.

Evangelist - Because Mary Magdalene was charged in all four Gospels to be the first to share the good news of Christ's resurrection, she is often called the first evangelist. She is mentioned more often than any other woman in the New Testament.

Support - Mary Magdalene was kind and generous. She is listed among women who helped support Jesus' ministry from their own funds and her great faith earned special affection from Jesus.

Life Lessons- Being a follower of Jesus Christ will result in hard times. Mary stood by Jesus as he suffered and died on the cross, saw him buried, and came to the empty tomb on the third morning. When Mary told the apostles Jesus had risen, none of them believed her. Yet she never wavered. Mary Magdalene knew what she knew. As Christians, we too will be the target of ridicule and distrust, but we must hold onto the truth. Jesus is worth it.

Hometown- Mary Magdalene was from Magdala, a town on the western shore of the Sea of Galilee.
