Emotion word, comma

Using the Alan Peat skill 'Emotion word, comma' it can really enhance your writing as it tells you a lot more about how a character feels and show that you can use commas appropriately.

Below are some examples.

Emotionally, Jemma cried as she read the letter from the long-lost sister again.

Frantic, David rummaged through the litter in desperate hope that he would find the key.

Anxious, Mrs Smith was getting ready for the school inspector to arrive.

Desperate, she screamed for help.
